Hamlet Isaxanli
(Khazar University, Baku, Azerbaijan)

Sustainable development of individuals, institutions and the society at large is based on lifelong education and training. In particular, an institution's success in its own field of study directly depends on its high-level organizational and institutional culture, which is basically a result of education and training. Low-level education is also a big obstacle on poverty reduction, because it leads to low income level. Poverty of parents, in its turn, makes

“DSpace”

The screenshot shows the DSpace website for Khazar University. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'Home', 'Browse', and 'Help' links, a search box for 'Search DSpace', and a 'Sign on to' dropdown. Below this is a green banner with 'DSpace at Khazar University'. The main header features the Khazar University logo (a stylized 'X' with a flame and the year 1991) and the text 'Welcome to the Khazar University Institutional Repository (KUIR)!'. A sub-header states: 'Adminstrated by Khazar University Library Information Center, the KUIR showcases the research outputs of Khazar University staff.'

The 'Recent Submissions' section highlights a book titled 'The Iravan Khanate' with a 'See' button. The description reads: 'This book is the real and recently occurring picture of the historical truth that some Western politicians “do not see”, or rather, do not want to see as they exercise Christian solidarity with the Armenians. As the policy of discrimination between Azerbaijanis and Armenians continues in a world of double standards and the refugee lifestyle of over 1 million Azerbaijanis in their own native lands continues to be ignored, the Azerbaijani people will be wary of pro-Armenian western politic...'. Navigation arrows and a progress indicator are present.

The 'e-Library' logo is accompanied by the text: 'If you are a member of the Khazar University community and would like to contribute digital resources to KUIR see the IR Policy, or contact KUIR staff.'

The 'Communities in DSpace' section lists various departments with their collection counts:

Institutional Repository

<http://dspace.khazar.org>

The screenshot displays the DSpace Institutional Repository interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, Browse, and Help, a search box labeled 'Search DSpace', and a 'Sign on to:' dropdown menu. Below this is a green breadcrumb trail: 'DSpace at Khazar University / Schools / School of Science and Engineering'. The main content area features a highlighted box around the text 'Dissertation and Thesis : [100] Community'. Below this is a 'Recent Submissions' section with a blue background, showing a submission titled 'Equation of State Modelling of Field Development Plan and Economic Analysis of Gas Condensate Reservoir of Ahdi Field in Pakistan' with a 'See' button. A 'Browse' section follows, with buttons for 'Issue Date', 'Author', 'Title', and 'Subject'. The 'Collections in this community' section lists 'Publications [39]' and 'Thesis [61]', with the latter highlighted. On the right side, there are two panels: 'Discover' showing a list of authors with their respective counts (e.g., Amirov, Elnur: 18) and 'Subject' showing a list of subjects with their counts (e.g., Caspian Sea: 3).

Problems

Security:

- Lack of awareness of the significance of library theft and its impact on the integrity of library collections and services; and inadequate means of monitoring loss rates.
- Online access view to library video cameras.

Space:

- Lack of group study rooms for students and training room for librarians.
- No working rooms for indexing, cataloging.
Cataloging team works in conjunction with circulation or reader service.
- No library collection storage facility within Khazar University.
- No relaxing room for staff.

IT:

- Old Computers parameters (HDD change SSD, upgrade RAM) for students.
- Incorrect links to images within website and internal links, it's impossible to create static new pages, Ask a Librarian: Virtual Reference Service.

Adequate funding:

- to subscribe new print and electronic resources.

Future Plans

- To implement RFID Library Management System;
- To provide access to all library eResources from home by Virtual Private Network;
- To move from library webpage to the LIC website;
- Provision of large version of library website for disabled students with visual impairment ;
- Antivirus software;
- Develop strategies on how the Library can effectively integrate into the KU online learning environment (e.g. Moodle);
- EDUROAM;
- Update website of the Khazar Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences;
- To participate in the ERASMUS+KA Action (update version of DIRNA to meet European Commission recommendations);
- Change organizational chart of the LIC. Complete the updating of job descriptions.
- To evaluate how the faculty and students use our e-resources and how satisfied they are with library support.

Future Trends

Librarians need to see themselves and their libraries as bridges to the past and gates to the future

Trends that will determine the transformation of the knowledge warehouse idea in the coming years:

- information in the cloud;
- comprehensive search engine;
- multiformat media environment;
- library - a club of live communication;
- library-center for the preservation of local culture ...
